

On Thursday, January 25, 2018, Germantown High School recognized eleven students for the December "Student of the Month" initiative and breakfast. These students were nominated by a teacher in one of the departments listed below and that teacher then attended the breakfast and presented the reasons for the nomination. The criteria used for selection is: 1) the student goes above and beyond within the classroom, 2) the student has shown dramatic improvement in the classroom and 3) the student has earned a high academic achievement. Parents, the student, and their teacher attend this breakfast held before school each month.

Germantown High School is proud to present this month's recipients:

L-R:

Front row: Ashley Stone (Family and Consumer Sciences), Benjamin Larson (World Languages), Lauren Scarpace (Business Education), Cassandra Kirkpatrick (Art), Madison Van Allen (Math)

Back row: Jeremy Erickson (English), Tanya McNeal (Science), Kellyn Homa (Technology Education), Camden Celichowski (Physical Education), Margaret Koprek (Music), Magdalena Mandell (Social Studies)

